“Classical music” and Max have always gone together. From his first childhood Sony Walkman to the AirPods on his desk right now, classical music has provided the background soundtrack to his life.

Now, as a new father, Max is excited to promote live performances of classical music, both to fellow lifelong fans and to those just discovering classical music. Orchestral performances, like those of Symphony Tacoma, are his favorite portal to masterworks of art and the shared human experience. Max hopes to serve the orchestra by elevating the exposure of our artists in Tacoma’s vibrant arts and culture scene.
